Dear Friends,

One of the blessings I receive as the spiritual leader of this ministry is getting books in the mail from authors who are trying to get their message out to the masses.

Once such book came across my desk last month by author Kathy Chruma. Kathy is a life coach who wants to help people transform their lives using the Law of Attraction. She states, “The co-creation process is fun and exciting and it requires a perfect order: Be - Do- Have. BE the person that you desire to be in every aspect of your life and that will allow you to DO all that you must do to HAVE whatever you desire in your life.”

She talks about six ways that, when practiced, will help you achieve the BE-DO-HAVE goals in your life. Over the years I have used many of them myself to reach my goals. These are time tested activities that have been taught by all the great teachers, sages, and master throughout time. All we have to do in make a commitment to practice them every day.

Try these activities and see how they will make a difference for the better in your life and affairs. They are:

1. Treat all people with kindness, love, peace, and gratitude know that what you do to the least of your brothers, you do unto yourself.
2. Give to the World, that which you wish to receive back into your world.
3. Live life with an attitude of gratitude and look for ways in which to perform random acts of kindness.
4. Be an observer of the words you use to describe your experiences. Choose your words carefully because the spoken word takes on its own life as it goes into the universe as a decree and is mirrored back to you.
5. God is the creator. We are the created.

Therefore, all things are of God and carry a spiritual DNA in their makeup. This connects us to all life. What we do the earth we do to ourselves. Treat all life forms with respect.

6. Take time to pray and meditate daily. Reflecting on the things in your life that you are grateful for helps to reinforce your faith, joy, health, love, laughter, and well-being.

One of my favorite teachings by Jesus was that I can experience all the great things God has created for me right here and right now. All I have to do is figure out where my treasure is. “Fear not, little flock, for it is your Father's good pleasure to give you the kingdom. For where your treasure is, there will your heart be also” (Luke 12:32;34).

In other words the treasure I hold in my heart are the ideas, concepts, beliefs, that I value most in my life. The question we must ask is: “Are my values life affirming or life denying?”

If I value hoarding over sharing I will be rewarded according to my faith and reap the consequences of fear. Fear of losing stuff or fear of people stealing it because this is where I’m putting all my energy.

Jesus is saying we don’t have to fear anything because God is the source of our good. The kingdom of heaven is not in some far off place but right here for us to use. The reason people can’t see it is because the treasure they are holding in their hearts won’t let them. It’s a false treasure of negative thoughts, ideas, concepts, beliefs, based on what the world tells them.

When we go to God first in prayer and meditation we are given all that we need to experience and see the kingdom for ourselves so that fear will be a thing of the past. Then we will, as Kathy Chruma states, BE-DO-HAVE.

Abundant Blessings?
